News Digest.

At a meeting of the Board of Councilors, last evening, the Finance Committee reported a deficiency of $8,000 in the accounts of the late City Treasurer, Mr. H. SCHWARTING.

It is now stated that the population of Kansas is 97,000, excluding several of the most populous counties.

A fire occurred at Boston on Saturday, by which two lives were lost and some $40,000 or $50,000 worth of property destroyed.

Com. VANDERBILT and the Pacific Mail Steamship Company have entered into an agreement whereby all opposition is done away with. The fares are to be raised forthwith.

The New England States have been visited by a heavy snow storm.

Some highly interesting news from Chihuahua will be found in our telegraph columns.

Democratic State Convention.

The Democratic State Convention, to elect Delegates to the Charleston Convention, which meets in April next to nominate candidates for President and Vice President of the United States, will assemble at Madison at noon to-morrow. There is no doubt that the DOUGLAS men will control the Convention and send a united DOUGLAS delegation to Charleston; but there is considerable doubt as to who these Delegates will be. All the prominent politicians in the State, on the Democratic side of the House, are aspirants for this position.

Delegates to the Republican Convention.

The following are the delegates elect, from the City and County to the Republican State Convention, so far as returns have been received:

First Assembly District.—JOHN H. TWEEDY, J. P. SEAMAN.

Second District.—J. A. PHELPS, P. BRICKLER.

Third District.—HANS CROOKER, JOHN FRENCH.

Fourth District.—ALEX. MITCHELL, C. H. WILLIAMS.

Fifth District.—S. H. MARTIN, S. B. DAVIS.

Sixth District.—Not heard from.

Seventh District.—(Wauwatosa &c.) A. B. MOWER, N. CORNWALL.

Eighth District.—M. L. BURDICK and O. ELLSWORTH.

DUELLING IN NEW ENGLAND.—The following extract from "Chronology of New England," by THOMAS PRINCE, is respectfully recommended by a correspondent to the consideration of those who have dueling propensities:

"June 18, 1621.—The Second Offence is the first Duell fought in New England, upon a challenge at a single combat with Sword & Dagger between Edward Doty and Edward Leister, Servants of Mr. Hopkins. Both being wounded, the one in the Hand, the other in the Thigh; they are adjudged by the whole company to have their Head and Feet tied together, and so to lie for 24 hours, without Meat or Drink: which is begun to be inflicted but within an hour because of their great Pains, at their own and their Master's humble Request, upon Promise of better carriage, they are released by the Governor."

REV. J. C. RICHMOND will preach the opening sermon in the new church at Butte des Morts, on the 26th of this month. He has also consented to deliver two lectures in that place for the benefit of the church.

THE DANE COUNTY BIBLE SOCIETY will hold its annual meeting at the First Presbyterian Church in Madison, on Sunday evening, the 26th inst., at 7 o'clock P. M.

JOSEPH STEPHENS killed a large grey wolf in Town 23, Range 17, (Centre,) some 12 miles from Appleton, on Monday last.

THE OLD SETTLERS of Appleton expect to have a good time on Wednesday next. It is to be a good old pioneer festival.

Affairs in Washington.

Correspondence of the Courier and Enquirer.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.

The National Congressional Executive Committee is now organized, and it is an able one and a working one. It is composed of Senators Preston King, N. Y., Chairman, J. W. Grimes, Iowa, L. S. Foster, Conn., and Representatives E. B. Washburne, Illinois, David Kilgore, Ind., John Covode, Pa.—Treasurer, E. G. Spaulding, N. Y., L. N. Stratton, N. J., John B. Alley, Mass.—Secretary and Executive Manager resident in Washington, George Harrington.

The above are all earnest, able, thoroughgoing, straight-out Republicans and effective working men.

It is the intention of the Committee to organize co-operating Clubs in all the States, which in their turn will organize Clubs in each County, and open correspondence for the purpose of disseminating information.—The zealous co-operation of native Republicans in all parts of the country is desired.—Communications and applications for documents should be addressed to the Secretary, at Washington, D. C., and they will meet with prompt attention.

POLITICAL.—The Lecompton Democratic State Committee of California, by a vote of 17 to 13, have rejected the advances of the Douglas wing for a union, for which the latter were so eager. The result is considered a triumph on the part of Mr. Gwin.

The People's Party of Delaware are discussing the propriety of sending delegates to the Chicago Convention.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce says:

"It is amusing to see with what bitterness Mr. Douglas is opposed by the Northern Democrats in the Senate. Fitch, Bright, Bigler, Gwin and others, assail him, in caucus, with greater severity than Senators from the South. Their object is to get the party to adopt a platform which Douglas cannot accept, for, should he be nominated and elected, the four men I have named will experience no mercy from his hands as President, and they know it.

A TROT.—A trotting match for $200, between the Oshkosh horse Duroc and the Fond du Lac horse Ticonderoga, came off last Tuesday on the ice a mile or so this side of the latter place; mile heats, best three in five. All the boys and horsemen went over to see the fun. The Fond du Lac horse was badly beaten, and his backers effectually scooped out. Duroc took the stakes, easy, winning the first, second and fourth heats.—Oshkosh Courier, 17th.

DID AS HE AGREED.—A man paid a subscription to the Kalamazoo Telegraph the other day, by delivering a load of wood cut from the branches and small limbs of trees, he having agreed to pay in "tip-top" wood. Such a man must excite admiration for his scrupulous fulfilment of a contract.—Janesville Gazette.

From Madison.

Correspondence of the Sentinel.

MADISON, Feb. 20, 1860.

DEAR SENTINEL:—The Senate, on Tuesday, had a resolution up to adjourn on the 5th of March. There was quite a debate—Senator RODOLF said that he presumed it would be a benefit to the people of the State, if they would adjourn immediately, and perhaps better still if they had never met. But the Senate won't adjourn until they get ready, and they need not squander time by discussing resolutions. RODOLF's "head is level," sometimes. He ain't a bad man "to have in the House." He is a fiery debater, and a hot-headed Democrat, with some conscientious pangs.

Senator DAVIS said the weighty business of the session had not been taken up. The disposition of the land grants would necessarily take much time, and the reports from the committees to examine into the condition of the various State Institutions. They spent more time upon some little frivolous matter, than upon any matter of importance. Let the Senate take hold of business, and when they get through, adjourn and go home.

The resolution was indefinitely postponed, and that's the end of the short session fever, probably. The general impression seems to be that we are to have a refreshing season, yet. There are some regular speeches to be delivered at the heads of the patient President and suffering Speaker. They both listen patiently, like courteous gentlemen, as they are; but occasionally the close observer can see an uneasy wrinkle steal over their countenances as the steel finger of time passes the dinner hour. What a cruel thing an adjournment is at such a time; cutting the "learned gentleman" off, in the midst of his eloquence.

The Judiciary Committee in the Assembly reported unanimously against interfering with the Homestead Exemption Law. Now let us have ELMORE's bill abolishing all laws for the collection of debts, and then another bill to abolish ELMORE, and the thing is fixed. This is too wicked a country for the "Sage." His Utopian schemes can never succeed, unless a few more Lodges of the "Sons of Malta" are established, to humanize the people. The large vote in the Assembly, on the Sage's abolition bill, is owing to the fact that most of the members are "Sons," in good standing, or under the influence of active members in the Lodge.

On Saturday, Mr. ELMORE offered a resolution instructing the judiciary committee to report a bill in accordance with section 16 of article 7, of the Constitution, which provides that "The Legislature shall pass laws for the regulation of tribunals of conciliation, defining their powers and duties. Such tribunals may be established in and for any township, and shall have power to render judgment obligatory on the parties, &c." I think there should be an appeal from this Court to a Justice of the Peace "in an adjoining county." Proper respect for the "judiciary" requires this safeguard.

I move to amend the Constitution so that slander suits shall be settled by a Grand Jury of old grannies over a tea table, without any appeal to the "High Court of Hernia,"

T. STARR KING, who was announced to lecture here, has written that he cannot appear. Col. CHARLES D. ROBINSON delivers his lecture on the Lost Arts, before the Home Lecture Society, some time this week. The Democratic Convention to be held here on the 22d, begins to excite attention. Delegates are coming in. BUCHANAN is going to try to scoop out DOUGLAS in the Third District, by securing the appointment of HOBART. Everybody talks DOUGLAS, but every body don't vote DOUGLAS. Probably a large number of proxies have been put into the unprejudiced hands of BUCHANAN post-masters, and other pure patriots. Times are hard, and "Jeems" is willing to pay travelling fees. I believe the "call" for this Convention did not extend to anything further than the appointment of delegates to Charleston. Perhaps they will extend the powers, and nominate a Chief Justice. There could be but little objection to this by the people, from the fact that there are very few "people" left. They are all office-seekers, and an office seeker don't care for anything that don't hurt his corns. It is rumored that ABRAM LINCOLN may be here at the time the Republican Convention meets. Yours,

INVARIABLE.

THE ORIGIN OF CIGARS.—The cigar, tho' more delicately manufactured, is essentially the same as that smoked by the red man when first visited by Columbus. We may here describe an Indian mode of tobacco-taking, which is evidently the origin of the cigar. It is told by Lionel Wafer, in his account of his "Travels in the Isthmus of Darien in 1669." He says that when the tobacco-leaves are properly dried and cured, the natives "laying two or three leaves upon one another, they roll up all together sideways in a long roll, yet leaving a little hollow. Round this they roll other leaves one after another in the same manner, but close and hard, till the roll is big as one's fist and two or three feet in length. Their way of smoking when they are in company together is thus: A boy lights one end of a roll, and burns it to a coal, wetting the part next to it to keep it from wasting too fast.—The end so lighted he puts into his mouth, and blows the smoke through the whole length of the roll into the face of every one of the company or council, though there be two or three hundred present. Then they, sitting in their usual posture upon forms, make their hands, held together, a kind of funnel round their mouths and noses; into this they receive the smoke as it is blown upon them, snuffing it up greedily and strongly, as long as ever they are able to hold their breath, and seeming to bless themselves, as it were, with the refreshment it gives them."

Lieutenant Page, who commanded the American expedition to La Plata, speaks of the universal custom of smoking in Paraguay, and inviting visitors to join. The servants, as a matter of routine, bring in "a small brass vessel, containing a few coals of fire, and a plate of cigars. This last hospitality is offered in every house, however humble its pretensions in other respects; and all men, women, and children, delicate and refined girls, and young masters who would not with us be promoted to the dignity of pantaloons, smoke with a gravity and gusto that is irresistably ludicrous to a foreigner. My son sometimes accompanied me on these visits, and was always greatly embarrassed by the pressing offer of cigars. I made his excuse by saying, "Smoking is a practice we consider injurious to children." "Si, Senor," the Paraguayan would reply, "with all other tobacco, but not that of Paraguay." With both sexes tobacco is a constant passion."

BOLD ROBBERY.—On Tuesday night last a trunk belonging to Miss Louisa Montague, of Allen's Grove, was opened in the Depot and about a hundred dollars worth of property stolen therefrom. The theft was not discovered until the owner reached home, on the following day, when it was found to be empty. The girl's brother immediately returned to this place, and after considerable inquiry the robbery was traced to one Sam. Clement, a thief who has lately been liberated from the State Prison, and who has been making his home here this winter. Clement has absconded, and will probably not be seen in these parts again.

P. S. Clement, with John Lasher, who appears to be mixed up with the affair in some way, were arrested in Fort Atkinson, by officer Joslin, and brought back here for examination.—Whitewater Reg. 18th

A GENTLEMAN rode up to a public house in the country and asked, "Who is the master of this house?" "I am, sir," replied the landlord, "my wife has been dead about three weeks."

AT AN EVENING PARTY, a gentleman carving a chicken asked a lady what part she preferred. "I will take a foot handle," she said.

THE CITY.

INDUSTRY AND GENIUS.—ALEXANDER HAMILTON once said to an intimate friend:—"Men give me some credit for genius. All the genius that I have, lies just in this: when I have a subject in hand I study it profoundly. Day and night it is before me. Then I explore it in all its bearings. Then the effort which I make is what the people are pleased to call the fruits of genius. It is the fruit of labor and thought."

Mr. WEBSTER once replied to a gentleman who pressed him to speak on a subject of great importance: "The subject interests me deeply, but I have not time. These sir," pointing to a huge pile of letters, "I must reply to before the close of the session (which was three days off). I have not time to master the subject so as to do it justice."—"But, Mr. WEBSTER, a few words from you would do so much to awaken public attention to it." "If there be such weight in my words as you represent, it is because I do not allow myself to speak on any subject until I have imbued my mind with it."

Lord BROUGHAM was once complimented on the highly polished and very finished character of a lecture he had just delivered. "It ought to be pretty well polished," replied his lordship; "I read from the thirteenth copy I made of that lecture."

DEMOSTHENES was once urged to speak on a great and sudden emergency." "I am not prepared," said he, and obstinately refused.

The law of labor is equally binding on mediocrity and genius.

CRINOLOGY.—Our neighbor over the river is disposed to advance the inflation of crinoline still farther, by a resort to editorial puffing. He deprecates the fashionable collapse which is already beginning to take place, and sheds figurative tears over the doomed whalebone. To come to the nicety of the thing, we prefer the old fashioned method our ladies had of making themselves globular. We will not, of course, pretend to say how this was done. But it was effected by layers, that much we know, and had a substantial, material resistance—was a depth of muslin—a world of flounces—skirts, eh—and what not—that environed the dear creatures with deep, graceful folds of material. None of your semi-transparent silk, or gauze, stretched over a skeleton and swung pendant about in the convulsed air! The artificial ribs betraying themselves in every motion and striking against your——limbs as though you were meddling with a piece of machinery! We say it boldly. We prefer the other things, bustles, or whatever you may call them, and, Dr. HALL to the contrary notwithstanding, we go in for the clothes.

DEATH OF AN OLD CITIZEN.—JOHN SHORTELL, a resident of this city for the past sixteen years, died at his house in the Third Ward, on Saturday night, after a brief illness. Mr. SHORTELL has creditably filled various offices of public trust, and at the time of his death was one of the School Commissioners for the Third Ward. The Board, at a special meeting held yesterday noon, adopted the following resolution:

Resolved, That this Board have received with sincere regret, the intelligence of Mr. SHORTELL's death, and that as a mark of respect for an honest man, good citizen, and faithful public servant, the Board of School Commissioners will attend his funeral in a body.

The remains of M. SHORTELL were followed to the grave yesterday afternoon by a large number of friends.

THE BAL MASQUE TO-NIGHT.—The long looked-for Ball of the Musical Society takes place this evening. That it will be a grand affair no one can doubt. The Society has put forth its best efforts to render the thing not only inapproachable in splendor and magnificence of detail, but has taken every precaution to prevent anything of a disreputable or improper character from being admitted to the Hall. A new feature will be the erection of a large throne at the east end of the room, for the Prince and Princess Carnival. The procession, coronation, pallet, opera and Polonaise will make up a rich entertainment aside from the spectacle of masquers, and a jam may be anticipated.

CHARTER ELECTION—THE NINTH WARD DEMOCRACY.—The News, of Sunday, publishes the proceedings of a Democratic meeting in the Ninth Ward, which seems to have resulted in a vote of "want of confidence" in all of our present Democratic City officers.—The meeting proposed the name of Mr. A. R. R. BUTLER, for Mayor; of Mr. W. H. JACOBS, for Treasurer; and knowing "no fit, or competent men as candidates for the responsible office of City Comptroller and City Attorney," appointed a committee of three to make inquiries on the subject.

THE MOUNT VERNON FESTIVAL.—A correspondent censures the Lady Managers of the Mount Vernon Association for "encouraging a ball on 'Saturday night,'" and thus "desecrating the earliest hours of the Lord's day by returning from a ball." We think these strictures uncalled for and unfounded. The 'ball' to which our correspondent refers, was a pleasant and quiet little party; and the Hall was closed, by direction of the Lady Managers, at 11 o'clock, giving everybody ample time to get home before midnight.

SHAVER'S PATENT ERASER.—We have received a very convenient and valuable little present called "Shaver's Patent Eraser, Polisher, Paper Cutter, Folder and Pencil Sharpener." It is something new, and does its work in an expeditious and satisfactory manner. E. P. BACON, at the Mil. & Miss. R. R. Depot, is the agent. We advise all editors, book-keepers and students to furnish themselves with one of these little instruments immediately.

YESTERDAY we were treated to a slice of May—sunny, balmy, muddy, and all that sort of sentimental thing. It positively did one's heart good to see all the ladies come out and perform privoettes over the inundated sidewalks. Water street never seemed more appropriately named, and seldom have we ever seen it so gay with people. Give us another slice, oh Febrna!

SOCIAL HOP AT PORTAGE.—A social hop takes place to-morrow night at the Railroad House, Portage City. That it will be an extra occasion the name of WM. ROGERS, that appears on the cards of invitation, is sufficient guaranty.

We understand that quite a number of our good folks intend joining with the Portage City people on this occasion.

LECTURE BY GEO. D. PRENTICE.—We are formed that GEO. D. PRENTICE, editor of the Louisville Journal, will deliver a lecture at Albany Hall, in this city, on Tuesday, March 1st. Subject, "American Statesmanship." The announcement in the evening papers that the lecture was to take place on Saturday was a mistake.

THE "LITTLE BADGER" is the name of a very small paper hailing from Waupun, and of which L. H. SALVERDA is proprietor.—Its terms are ten cents a month. Reasonable that. We wish the "Little Badger" success.

HOUSE TO RENT.—J. S. FILLMORE has a frame house on Knapp street, south side, between Main and Milwaukee streets.

Meeting of the Board of Councilors.

AT THE REGULAR MEETING of the Board of Councilors last evening, the committee to whom was referred the matter reported having examined the accounts of the Milwaukee Gas Company and that the said company had overcharged the city $454,41; but that when their attention was called to the fact, they promptly rectified the mistake.

JOHN BUTTLES, drayman, presented a petition, stating that he had lost his horse by driving him in the water at a location where the city had been dredging. A resolution was adopted authorizing the payment of $75 to Mr. BUTTLES.

The report of the Finance Committee on the petition of NELSON CROSS was accompanied by a resolution to pay Mr. CROSS $600, which was adopted.

The Joint Committee on Finance also reported having examined the books in the Treasurer's office, and reported a deficiency in the accounts of Mr. SCHWARTING of $8.000.

A resolution to pay policemen in two monthly orders so as to enable them to get half their wages in cash was presented and referred to a select committee of four.

Councilor MCCORMICK offered an ordinance to repeal an ordinance authorizing the construction of horse railroads in the city of Milwaukee.

The ordinance to repeal so much of the former ordinance as authorized the construction of Horse Railroads in the 3d Ward.

Councilor LOCKWOOD stated that there had been a very general expression of public opinion in favor of the Railroads, and that the companies had even got their iron and had hoped to commence operations before cold weather, that they had vested rights, and that the repeal of any part of the existing ordinances would subject the city to heavy damages, and perhaps be compelled to pay some such heavy fees as Mr. RYAN recently collected.

The Council refused to have the ordinance read the second time.

Councilor MCCORMICK afterwards offered a resolution, calling upon the members of the Legislature from Milwaukee, to pass a law to prevent the construction of Horse Railroads in the city of Milwaukee, stating that his constituents did not wish any Horse Railroads, and that he was following out their desires in his resolution.

Councilor LOCKWOOD moved to indefinitely postpone. Motion lost. The resolution was then adopted; ayes 7, noes 5.

Fourth Ward Republican Caucus.

PURSUANT to public notice, the Republicans of the Fourth Ward met at the Menomonee Hotel, on Saturday evening, Feb. 18th, for the purpose of electing two delegates to represent the said Ward in State Convention at Madison, on the 29th inst.

On motion of A. L. KANE, JAMES HOLTON was appointed Chairman, and EDWARD E. BOWNS, Secretary. A. W. PHELPS and T. J. SALSMAN were appointed tellers. There were 183 votes cast, as follows:

CHAS. H. WILLIAMS, 75; ALEX. MITCHELL, 74; J. A. SWAIN, 54; E. D. BAKER, 54; Scattering, 5. CHAS. H. WILLIAMS and A. MITCHELL were declared duly elected.

On motion of Mr. BOOTH it was

Resolved, That the delegates from this Ward to the Republican State Convention are instructed to cast their votes for none but a State Right candidate for Chief Justice.

On motion the meeting adjourned sine die.

JAMES HOLTON, Ch'n.

JOHN C. STARKWEATHER, Capt.

JOHN F. WAGE, Orderly.

VOTE OF THANKS.—At a meeting held by Hose Companies Nos. 1 and 2, and by Engine Companies Nos. 3, 4 and 6, of the Milwaukee Fire Department, it was unanimously

Resolved, That we return thanks to the officers and members of Pioneer Co. No. 1, of Watertown, for the kind and very hospitable manner in which we were received and entertained by them at their first annual ball, Feb. 17th; also that we will ever bear the grateful remembrance the kind attentions received from the ladies while there.

Resolved, That we extend our thanks to Mr. S. S. Merrill, Superintendent, and M. Atkins, Conductor on the Milwaukee & Watertown Railroad, for the generous and gentlemanly treatment received at their hands.

Resolved, That our thanks be tendered to Mr. Nathaniel Pratt, the kind and obliging host of the Planters' Hotel at Watertown, for the many creature comforts we enjoyed while under his roof. (signed.)

TELEGRAPH!

REPORTED BY THE N. Y. ASSOCIATED PRESS, FOR THE DAILY SENTINEL.

Washington Matters.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—3 P. M.

The Tribune's Washington correspondent says the official report of the Committee on Elections of the Kansas Legislature on the census returns, have been received here, and give a very different complexion to the result recently announced by telegraph. They find that Doniphan gives 1,111 votes with a population of 3,509, yet from a reliable information the register shows a registered vote exceeding 1,800, giving an additional population of 3,000. Atchison returns show 963 votes and a population of 3,722, has now on registry 2,000, giving an additional population of 4,200. Riley county is not reported, in which there are 650, with a population of 2,600. Leavenworth county has returned a vote of 3,445, and a population of 12,122. Reliable information gives 16,000 as the population.

The committee state that the census returns exhibited in the report of the Governor, show great neglect on the part of the assessors in many of the townships, and some of the most populous counties.

No returns from the counties of Clay, Dickinson, Magee, Osage, Wilson and Dorn, for which the smallest estimate made is 150 votes in each, giving a total of 900 votes, and a population of 3,400. This calculation is not based on any large increase of population in those fertile counties during the last eight months. The returns reported by the government show a partial and incorrect census taken in June, '59, showing that immigration into Kansas has been unprecedented. The whole population reported by the government at the regular session was 71,770, to which add the estimates of the foregoing counties only partially returned, and the total would be about 97,000 to the 1st of July, 1859, excluding several of the most populous counties, from which only a part of the townships were returned.

The special committee appointed by the Democratic caucus of the Senate, have agreed upon a platform concerning the protection of slavery in the Territories and are ready to report at an adjourned meeting. They accept Mr. Davis' resolution, defining and enlarging the fourth, so as to say substantially, that when a Territorial Legislature and the Judiciary find themselves incapable of furnishing protection to slave property, under the Dred Scott Decision, Congress must provide a remedy for the right there affirmed.

Mexican Affairs.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 18.

W McManus and J. P. Hickman, Americans, arrived from Chihuahua, confirm the information recently received by Maj. Phelps of Washington. They report a terrible condition of affairs. Not only Americans, but the entire population have been expelled from the country, and their property confiscated.

The State was being overrun. A considerable portion of the Church, under Domingo Cajen, united with 200 desperadoes pardoned by Miramon from prison.

A desperate battle took place on the plains of Talamantes on the 18th, with a loss of 45 killed.

The authorities of the Capital, in conjunction with the Americans, had sent to Fort Davis for the United States troops, receiving no relief. The Americans left the city, leaving a million dollars worth of property to the mercy of the robbers.

Cozen, at the head of 1,000 men, was marching on the Capital.

The liberals were friendly to the Americans, but were unable to afford protection.

Virginia Democratic State Convention.

RICHMOND, Feb. 20.

The Democratic Convention adjourned last night, after adopting a resolution to support the nominee of the Charleston Convention.

After the adjournment a mass meeting was held, composed principally of the members of the convention, and the following resolutions were adopted:

1st. That every suggestion of patriotism and policy, concerted State action as a measure for security for Constitutional State Rights.

2d. That the General Assembly of Virginia should respond favorably to the invitation of the State of South Carolina by the appointment of commissioners to a united Southern conference.

After the mass meeting adjourned, a crowd waited on Mr. Starke, Commissioner from Mississippi to Virginia, who arrived yesterday. In his speech he said Mississippi wanted conference for the Union, not disunion.

Fire and Loss of Life.

BOSTON, Feb. 19—3 P. M.

On Saturday, a fire broke out in the hair-curling and feather establishment of Manning, Glover & Co., No. 49 North Market Street, and 42 Merchants' Row. Loss about $20,000. Fully insured.

The lower portion of the main building, which was saved, was occupied by Francis E. Hathaway, as a boot and shoe store, whose stock was badly damaged by water. Total loss estimated at between $40,000 and $50,000.

About 3 o'clock on Sunday morning, when the firemen had about closed their labors, a portion of the wall fell outward, instantly killing Chas. Carter and Chas. E Danton, both of them highly respected members of Fire Department. In ten minutes both bodies were dug from the ruins shockingly mangled. Several others were injured but not dangerously. Carter and Dalton each leave a wife and three children.

BY LAST NIGHT'S REPORT

Congressional Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20—9 P. M.

HOUSE.—The Speaker announced the following select committee on the Senate bill to abolish the franking privilege: Messrs. Vallandingham, of Ohio; Kellogg, of Illinois; Burnett, of Ky.; Adams, of Mass., and Stokes, of Tenn.

Mr. Lovejoy, of Ill., asked leave to introduce preambles and resolutions respecting the rights and privileges of citizens of the several States; under the Constitution.

Whereas, As is alleged by responsible parties that citizens of some of the States, going into other States on business, such as the collection of debts, teaching, and other like lawful business, have been personally treated with indignity and violence, and driven from their property for certain sentiments they may have held, and without allegation of crime; and,

WHEREAS, An alleged practice, similar to the European passport system, is springing up; therefore

Resolved, That a committee of five be appointed to inquire into the above recited facts, whether any legislation is necessary to give effect to said provisions of the Constitution, and that the committee be empowered to send for persons and papers.

Mr. Lovejoy demanded a vote on the passage of the resolution.

Objections were made, and Mr. Houston, of Ala., moved for a call of the House.

Mr. Sherman, from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported a bill for the support of the Indian Department for fulfilling treaty stipulations with certain Indians in Oregon and Washington Territories.

Mr. Pryor announced the death of Wm. O. Goode, whose successor he is. He eulogized the private and political character of the deceased. Messrs. Miles and Vallandingham eulogized the deceased. The usual resolutions of respect were adopted.

Adjourned.

SENATE.—The bill for the relief of the widow of Capt. Bearcabells, of Cal., was taken up and disposed of.

Mr. Pugh made several adverse reports upon the applications for bounty lands.

Mr. Fitch reported a resolution from the Committee on Printing, for withholding the binding of the Senate's documents from the person with whom the contract was made, until the Committee could examine whether the contract with the Secretary of Senate was made in pursuance of the law. Laid over.

Mr. Rice introduced a resolution that the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads inquire into the expediency of a revision of the postal laws. Passed.

A joint resolution was received from the House, appropriating $10,000 for the inauguration of the statute of Washington.

A resolution from the House on joint rules for the two Houses, was agreed to.

Mr. Brown's resolutions were taken up.

Mr Clark made some lengthy remarks on the fourth resolution.

A message was received from the President transmitting a memorial of the citizens of Nebraska and the western slope of the Rocky Mountains. Referred to the Committee on Claims.

A message was received from the House, announcing the death of Wm. O. Goode, of Virginia.

Mr. Hunter offered the usual resolutions of respect, and moved that the Senate adjourn. Adjourned.

Wisconsin Legislature.

MADISON, Feb. 20—9 P. M.

Assembly met at 3 P. M., and nearly all the absentees were in their seats.

Petitions—Petition of I. B. Fargo, of Portage, for the Legislature to force the Fox and Wisconsin River Improvement Co. to pay them; several petitions from different quarters of the State, praying for a change in the system of county government; to allow the 3d Ward of the City of Milwaukee to issue bonds for a certain purpose; against the removal of Sheboygan county seat; three petitions for the removing of the Kilbourn City dam, and an appropriation therefor.

Resolutions—A resolution was introduced granting the use of the Assembly Chamber for an exhibition of the pupils of the Blind Institute; to instruct the Com. on Ways and Means to report whether the drainage fund may not be more definitely used than now; to examine into the affairs of the Fox and Wisconsin River Improvement Co.

Bills Introduced—To authorise the city of Racine to collect a special tax; to amend the law in relation to the proceedings for the collection of demands against ships and vessels; to amend chapter 153 of R. S. entitled, Of the Lien of Mechanics and Others; to amend section 11, of chapter 188, of R. S., relating to State Prison; to legal the appointment of the County Board of Oconto county; to amend section 13 of chapter 159 of R. S., entitled, Of Forcible Entry; to amend the laws relating to the fees of Jurors; to amend the law relating to the assessment and collection of taxes; to amend the law in relation to voluntary assessment; to provide for the payment of allowed accounts.

Bills Passed—To amend sub-division 3 of Sec. 45, chap. 23 R. S., relating to Common Schools. To repeal such of the R. S. as relates to the disposal of school and university lands. To authorize the Green Lake Bank to remove to Whitewater. To confer powers on the Committee investigating the affairs of Dane county.

A large number of bills were ordered to a third reading.

A resolution was offered granting the use of the Assembly Chamber to the Democratic State Convention on Wednesday afternoon and evening.

The House then went into

TUESDAY MORNING, FEB. 21, 1860.

REPUBLICAN STATE CONVENTION.

A Republican State Convention will be held at the Capitol, in Madison, on Wednesday, the 29th day of February, 1860, at 12 o'clock M., to choose four delegates from the State at large, and two from each Congressional District, to represent the State of Wisconsin in the Republican National Convention to be held at Chicago on the 18th of next June, to nominate two candidates for presidential electors for the State at large; to adopt such action as may be deemed advisable in view of the approaching election of Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of the State; and for the transaction of such other business as may be thought calculated to advance the interests of the party and promote the success of its principles.

Each Assembly District of the State will be entitled to two delegates in such Convention, except where a district includes more than one County, when each county will be entitled to two delegates.

The committee would respectfully suggest that Assembly District Conventions to elect delegates to the State Convention be held as early as Saturday, the 18th day of February.

A Democratic Paper on Mr. Douglas' late Position.

The recent course of Mr. DOUGLAS excites no little comment among the Northern Democratic papers, nearly all of whom are favorable to him. The Rochester Union, speaking of his recent speech in the Senate caucus, says:

> If Mr. Douglas really did avow his determination to support the Charleston nomination, no matter what kind of a platform may be adopted; and at the same time declared that the Slave Territorial question is simply a pretended question, we fail to see why he did not ipso facto commit political suicide. We sincerely hope he has been misrepresented.

The same paper continues with a pith and vigor that please us:

> The Democracy of this country are not in the habit of taking their creed ready made from the Supreme Court. Especially are they not in the habit of stifling their convictions and referring to that Court in advance, for their "political principles." When they arrive at that point they will justly become the scorn and derision of the world.
> If Senator Douglas has done as stated, he has effectually merged his individuality, and abdicated all distinctive position as a candidate and as a statesman. We might as well run an effigy of the Supreme Court as to run a living candidate who has to refer to the future action of that Court for his political principles. But we really hope that Mr. Douglas' declaration is not as unqualified as it has been represented. For it is safe to assume that however it may be with prominent public men, The People of this great country are not so insensible to their own rights as to vest the fashioning of their institutions, and the dictating of their political principles, in any five or six lifetenured officials who happen to sit on the bench of the Supreme Court.

Referring to the same Senate caucus and the determination there avowed to arrange a platform in advance for the Charleston Contion, the Cleveland Plaindealer angrily says:

> There never was a political representative body of men further removed from a fair and direct representation of the American people than that same American Senate. Their opinions and views they get from one another, like a sectarian assembly or a Beguinette community. Not satisfied with merely legislative duties, they have taken the business of the Charleston Convention in hand and assumed to "settle the Territorial question," to fix up a party platform and even to agree upon a Presidential candidate (?) Modest men are those Senators. "There is nothing left for them to accomplish but the duties of the Supreme Court, and the whole government is in their hands. Now for one, we do not intend to be foreclosed by any caucus doing or opinions that may originate in Washington. Charleston is the place designated, and a Democratic National Convention is the body recognized as having jurisdiction in the matter.

The News' Logic.

The News, which is naturally solicitous to excuse the vote of the Democratic members in the House of Representatives for a Know-Nothing Speaker, and must needs misrepresent the facts in order to do so, says in its last issue:

> Now we should say that when a Republican member of Congress states on the floor of the House that Mr. S. was not a Know-Nothing, and when his statement was not questioned by Mr. S. himself, or any man of his party, that such proof was conclusive, while the proof to which the Sentinel attaches such importance, that a paper had heard otherwise, was far from conclusive.

Inasmuch as no "Republican member of Congress" ever made any such statement on the floor of the House, and as Mr. SMITH, though repeatedly appealed to, never denied that he was and is a Know-Nothing, we submit that the Tablet, the organ of the Irish Catholics, is perfectly correct in saying:

> "Mr. Smith, of North Carolina, who is classed as a Know-Nothing was proposed by a member of that party as the nominee of the party by whom he was elected to Congress. He was nominated and elected by the Southern Know-Nothing party, in opposition to and over a Democrat. We have been privately assured, by good authority from the gentleman's own State, that he is an out and out Know-Nothing, and has long acted with that party. The assertion that he is not a member of the Know-Nothing order, or the Know-Nothing organization, or the Know-Nothing lodges, is the flimsiest and most shameful of subterfuges. He is a member of the party and a nominee of the party, who voted for him to a man; and no man, whom the votes of naturalized citizens helped to his seat in the House, could vote for him without being a traitor to those constituents.

Sound on the Union.

Ex-Governor Pennington of New Jersey, recently elected Speaker of the House at Washington, although sympathizing and working with the Republican organization, has shown his good sense and judgment in expressing himself in favor of such action as shall conciliate the stormy feelings that exist between the North and the South, and in the face of his party and the votes which placed him there, has dared to state that he "has a national heart, embracing all parts of our blessed Union." Such instances of Republican conservatism are so rare and uncommon, that we are disposed to give him great credit for his independence, and sincerely hope he will carry out in practice what he so beautifully expresses in principle. Should he do so, and by his action as Speaker show his determination to give "fair play" on both sides, there is not a Democrat but will hold up both hands for Pennington, and shout vive la Republican.—Kewaunee Enterprise (Dem.)

Governor PENNINGTON, in his remarks on taking the Speaker's Chair, faithfully reflected the sentiments of the "party and votes that placed him there." The Republicans are emphatically "sound on the Union." The Enterprize must look to its own side of the house for disunionists and secessionists. There are none such on the Republican side.

JUDGE LARRABEE.—It probably results from the fact that Judge Larrabee is the only Democrat now holding a high State position that the Republican press is particularly ferocious upon him. One would suppose that, out of a proper State pride, our representatives would be spoken of in less hostile terms. The great bulk of the Democratic press have, for this, if for no other reason, treated Doolittle, Durkee, Potter and Washburn courteously, and gentlemanly.—Green Bay Advocate.

See the columns of the News, for instance, for samples of the "courteous and gentlemanly treatment" extended to Messrs. DOOLITTLE and POTTER. That the Republican press have said some pretty sharp things, recently, of Judge LARRABEE, is very true; but it must be added that he has given good occasion for these strictures. The fulsome and elaborate puffery of "our LARRABEE," through the columns of the News and other party organs, has done him more harm, however, than the criticisms of the Republican press.

FAIR ASKING.—We request the Sentinel to tell us why, if Mr. Smith was a Know-Nothing, he voted not only against Pennington, Winter Davis candidate, but also against Hoffman, an avowed Plug-Ugly Know Nothing, elected by the Republicans, their Sergeant-at-Arms.—News.

Because Mr. SMITH was under too great obligations to his Democratic supporters and too intensely "sectional," to vote for any man, North or South, suspected of sympathizing with the Republicans. The Northern and Western Democrats, however, in voting for Mr. SMITH, "an avowed Plug-Ugly Know-Nothing," "conquered their prejudices," but betrayed their constituents.

THE CONSUMPTION OF COTTON.—The average weekly consumption of cotton in Great Britain through last year was the largest ever known, being 44,120 bales per week, against 41,819 in 1858; 37,681 in 1857; [illegible]ast in 1856. The crop of America and 43,520 1856 (year ending S[illegible]erican cotton in 527,000 bales [illegible]eptember 1st,) was 3,[illegible]1858, 2[illegible]; in 1857, 2,940,000 bales; in [illegible],114,000 bales; in 1859, 3,581,000 bales; and the deliveries at the ports already show a sufficient increase to indicate a crop for the current year of not less than 4,400,000 bales,—the largest crop yet known. England will take about 56 per cent. of the crop; our Northern manufacturers about 17 per cent.; and nearly all of the remaining 27 per cent. will be taken in the other countries of Europe.

SEARCHING FOR A PIRATE'S GOLD.—The Taunton Gazette says that two men of that town are engaged in digging on the northeast side of Foolish Hill, in Foxborough, as they say, under the direction of spirits, in search of treasures alleged to have been buried in that place by one John Bernard, a pirate and highwayman. One of the diggers asserts that he actually saw the ghost of the deceased pirate near the place where these operations are now going on, and both appear to be full in the faith that something valuable will reward their toil. Hundreds of people have already visited the spot, and the labors of these stapletons are watched with interest by great numbers.

Horicon Judicial Convention—'Cotton is King'—Mann Proposes, Larrabee Disposes—The Incidental Nomination of Judge Mann.

Correspondence of the Sentinel.

HORICON, Feb. 16, 1860.

The Democracy of the Third Judicial Circuit innocently supposed they were holding a Convention here to-day, to nominate a party candidate for Judge. A call was issued for that purpose, delegates were elected, assembled, organized, and Judge MANN, the present incumbent, was nominated with great unanimity.

The Democratic instrument had been put together and played the tune it was set to play under the manipulation of Judge MANN, and was about to be taken in pieces and the pieces distributed through the circuit, when suddenly another performer, the ubiquitous SANCHO PANZA BRICK, puffing and panting, from the speed with which he had been dispatched by his Quixotic master at Washington, rushed into the Convention, and after two words in the ear of SAT., the latter demanded that the instrument be again tuned and set to another piece. Now for music by telegraph. LARRABEE at one end of the wire, SAT. at the other, SANCHO PANZA turning over the sheets of music. The instrument being in order, the performers all ready, SANCHO takes from his bosom the prelude, lays it upon the instrument, and SAT, at this end of the wire performs. It is called "Praise ye the Judge," and gave entire satisfaction with once performing. It was not encored or criticized.

SANCHO draws from his bosom another sheet and lays it upon the instrument. SAT., at this end of the wire executes a bold anthem in praise of DOUGLAS and Squatter Sovereignty, "subject only to the constitution." This gives great dissatisfaction to the local performer, who had set up the instrument, he insisting that it was not on the programme, and that for the time being the instrument was his, many of his friends and admirers backing him; while the new performer insists that the instrument was only loaned to him, to play his tune on, which he having done, could not complain, if afterwards it was used to play a favorite air of its older stockholders. The debate ran high, the war waged hotter and hotter, until a truce was agreed on, by the promise of some genuine harmony which all could appreciate. SANCHO casts his eye over the audience, assumes his broadest grim, and takes from his hat, where the brick ought to be, a perfumed gilt-edged document, prepared in Washington, and lays it upon the instrument. SAT., at this end of the wire, with undeviating fingers, inspired by the electrical touch from the other extreme, throws his whole soul into the performance, and executes to the tune of "My Mary Ann," the following:

Good on your head, our own LARRABEE,
Why shouldn't a nigger be a slave,
The Union is safe, with your "novel idea,"
Tho' mum had been better for
"Our LARRABEE."

Don't you see that dark lantern
A shining way up Tar River,
Follow its light, says a big sour krout,
And we'll back you up,
"Our LARRABEE."

Old Buck here, a Know Nothing there,
And little Doco. close behind,
Oh! he suffers some, but riggle thro'
To Charleston, will
"Our LARRABEE."

He's the pride of all, in Congress there,
'Tis a pity he wouldn't "be pressed,"
He might have been Speaker, 'twas a "narrow escape,"
But Charleston awaits
"Our LARRABEE,"
But Charleston awaits
"Our LARRABEE."

It made no difference with SAT., although it was apparent all through the performance that some of the keys were horribly discordant, and that the first performer and many of the Post Masters present

"——glow'd amazed and curious,"

To know what all this had to do with the occasion, and among the outsiders

"The mirth and fun grew fast and furious;"

Yet SAT., like

"The piper, loud and louder blew,"

Until he had by main strength, on the old Democratic instrument, that "harp of a thousand strings," fully vindicated our LARRABEE, and demonstrated that, what the innocents deemed the end and object of the Convention, was but a mere incident. What does it matter, when the Union is in danger, whether Judge MANN be elected or not.—Horicon is the home of "our LARRABEE," and the means were at hand to glorify him.

The performance broke up in a nice little row. Some saying SAT. and BRICK's tomfoolery had killed MANN; others, who were before favorably inclined, swearing they would'nt vote upon compulsion for LARRABEE to go to Charleston, if votes were as thick as blackberries.

The Convention was certainly generous to BRICK—not of Horicon in the circuit—not of Milwaukee in this State—but BRICK of Washington—to allow him to bring in the resolutions; but they knew he was fresh, yes very fresh, from Washington, and his arrival was most timely, for if he had been two minutes later, the Convention in its stupidity would have adjourned, and never dreamed that the endorsement of DOUGLAS, and the endorsement of LARRABEE's vote for SMITH, the Know-Nothing, was essential to the election of Judge MANN. Magnanimous Convention! Sagacious LARRABEE! Timely BRICK! Fortunate MANN! Unfortunate Post Masters!! L. W. A.

Letter from Senator H. S. Wilkinson on the Presidency.

From the Faribault Republican.

We publish below a letter just received from Hon. M. S. Wilkinson, our Republican United States Senator, which we are happy to say fully endorses our nomination of Gov. Seward for the Presidency. We invite the particular attention of our Republican friends to the sound reasons advanced by Senator Wilkinson for the nomination of the distinguished champion of Republican principles. They are such as commend themselves forcibly to the hearts and consciences of every intelligent Republican. Not only does the present embarrassed condition of our Government under Democratic misrule, the future prosperity as well as perpetuity of the Union, demand at the hands of the Republican party the nomination and election of the most eminent, and universally acknowledged, ablest statesman of the age to the responsible position of Chief Magistrate of the nation, but it is equally imperatively due to the honor and credit of the Republican party, to their character of truth, justice, and a true appreciation of noble fidelity and devotion to their principles, that Gov. Seward's faithful, fearless and able defense of Republican principles should be acknowledged by the Republican party and his fidelity rewarded. With Gov. Seward as our standard bearer, we can go into the President contest heartily, fearless, and confident of a glorious victory:

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28th, 1860.

FRIEND BROWN:—I was rejoiced to see the Central Republican, which I received on night, the name of William H. Seward at the head of the column, for President, and at the have been here and been ch[illegible]. Since I the abuse of our noble [illegible]ed to listen to cans, I think [illegible] trust Republicselves. [illegible] we are, in justice to ourto the party and to principle, required to nominate our great representative man, and particularly since he is daily made the target at which the poisoned arrows of an unscrupulous and vindictive enemy are hurled. I hope he may receive the support of the delegates from our State. The Republicans are now opening their batteries upon the enemy, and I think it is apparent to them that they entirely mistake the sentiments of the people of the North.

Yours truly,
M. S. WILKINSON.

CASSIUS M. CLAY AT WASHINGTON.—An eye-witness thus describes the attentions paid to the hero of Frankfort during his recent visit to the seat of government:

"There has been of late years nothing like the reception of Mr. Clay at Washington. When, on Wednesday last he entered the Hall of the House of Representatives, for more than an hour he was surrounded by persons of all parties—old acquaintances and new; even men from as far South as Tennessee came up to pay their respects to him. The galleries were crowded with ladies and gentlemen, and all eyes were upon him. His speech at Frankfort on the 10th of January has produced a sensation rarely equalled in the history of the country, and all were anxious to honor the hero and patriot who so ably and gallantly stood by his country and the Union."

Portraits of Distinguished Senators.

SENATOR SEWARD.—"Nobody," of the N. Y. Times, describes Mr. Seward as follows: Mr. Seward, then, be it known, is a small man, about five feet seven inches in height, with a nervous and thin figure—legs which seem to bend under his light weight; an immensely tall head, covered with a thick drift of gray hair, a long, pleasant face, with a nose after the Wellington pattern; shaved cheeks; a small, nervous mouth, and large blue eyes—the most difficult to describe of any which your correspondent has encountered. They are peculiar blue eyes, with an electric gleam in them. These eyes are shaded under long gray horns of eyebrows, and have a shifting expression, which never allows one a chance to examine their true significance. They look beyond you into space—look into the future; while you are trying vainly to rivet them. All the rest of the face is smooth as the skin of an apple; but when you approach the eyes, the lids are wrinkled and puckered, channeled and nervous, winking and contracting, opening and flashing, with a perpetual change of sentiment and perception, such as no pen can portray, and no daguerreotype reproduce with full justice.

In conversation, Mr. Seward presents a striking contrast to the ideals formed of him by those who take their fancy images from the press. Nothing can be sweeter or more philosophic than his tone—nothing calmer than his statement of political propositions. He is one of those who can afford to wait for the justice of history, and who confines with a high and clear faith in the ultimate success of what he believes to be the truth—no matter how loudly or fiercely the multitude may bray against him for the time.—Very tolerant of different opinions, and very liberal in all matters touching religious faith, our irrepressible conflict gentleman is both generous and just in all private relations, found, in moderation of social enjoyments, and never so much at home as when laughing privately with extreme Southern men over their public quarrels. He is a firm and hearty believer in the Union and its permanence, one who seems never to have had a doubt on the subject, and one who can stand up for Justice to the bitter end, all considerations of Expediency being remitted to the lower order of minds in his own party. A generous, philosophic, gentle-blooded man, his old-fashioned courtesy is very captivating; and certainly no man in the Republican ranks could be put forward, who would command the same personal respect and affection and confidence on the Southern side of Mason and Dixon's line.

Death of Harper's Ferry.

We get from Washington this mournful piece of intelligence: "The proceedings of the Harper's Ferry Investigating Committee have elicited nothing new, and excite no public interest whatever." Thus, along with the return of the South Carolina Embassador, and the inability to coax or to frighten Virginia into sending delegates to the proposed Disunion Convention, and with the failure of the Southern Democratic filibusters to prolong disorganization at Washington, we now have the announcement that nothing is to be hoped from the Harper's Ferry investigation. This last reliance of the Disunion insurgents has thus faded away and evaporated. Harper's Ferry is as dead as its great martyr. It turns out at last that John Brown had no confederates outside of a small circle, and none at all within the ranks of the Republican party. It is made more and more manifest that he was a man of deeds and not words. He trusted his project to no one, and he suffered no one to dictate his action.

He was thus the agent of no man, of no society, of no association of individuals. He planned his own scheme, and he locked the secrets of it within his own breast. Not even those who were associated with him seem to have had any knowledge of the details of his proposed operations. He never divulged them, it now appears, in any manner to anybody. Just what they were must thus forever remain a matter of conjecture. When one of his confederates was asked to explain just what he proposed to do, and why he was blindly following the fortunes of a man whose schemes were on the face of them so apparently Quixotic and impossible of execution, the man's naive reply to his inquisitor was, "Ah, Sir! but it is evident you don't know Capt. Brown." The whole inquisition does not seem to get a step beyond this. Capt. Brown alone appears to have been the be all and the end-all of the extraordinary demonstration against Virginia at Harper's Ferry. No man seems to have been linked with him except in a loose and uncertain manner, and nobody at all his counselor and adviser.—N. Y. Tribune.

THE PREACHER to the University of Cambridge is not the first clergyman who has quoted from the Prayer Book of the Episcopal Church, and called it Scripture.—Boston Transcript.

It has frequently been remarked that passages occurring in the "Book of Common Prayer" have been often quoted by writers, speakers and preachers, as from the Bible. Among these may be mentioned the following:

"Read, mark, learn and inwardly digest," which occurs in the Collect for the second Sunday in Advent; "In the midst of life we are in death;" and "earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust," which are in the service for the "Burial of the Dead;" "the iron entered into his soul," found in the Psalter, as the translation of v. 18 of Psalm cv., the Bible version being much less expressive: "the was laid in the iron;" "He maketh men to be of one mind in an house;" the Psalter version of the passage given by the King James translators, "God setteth the solitary in families;" and others we might quote.—*N. MOTHERS! MOTHERS!

DON'T FAIL TO PROCURE MRS. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for children teething. It has no equal on earth. It greatly facilitates the process of teething, by softening the gums, reduces inflamation—will allay all pain, and is sure to regulate the bowels. Depend upon it, mothers, it will give rest to yourselves, and relief and health to your infants. Perfectly safe in all cases.

This valuable preparation is the prescription of one of the most experienced and skillful Female Physicians in New England, and has been used with never failing success in millions of cases.

We believe it is the best and surest remedy in the world, in all cases of Dysentery and Diarrhœa in children, whether it arises from teething or any other cause.

If life and health can be estimated by dollars and cents, it is worth its weight in gold.

Millions of bottles are sold every year in the United States. It is an old and well tried remedy.

PRICE ONLY 25 CENTS A BOTTLE.

☞ None genuine unless the fac simile of CURTIS & PERKINS, New York, is on the outside wrapper.

Sold by Druggists throughout the world. Office No. 13 Cedar street, New York.

THE PUBLIC BLESSING WHICH IS now so universally admitted to exist in Moffat's Life Pills and Phœnix Bitters, is every day demonstrated by their astonishing efficacy in the cases which they are announced to cure. All the complaints of the stomach and bowels, weakness of the digestive organs and of the system generally, bilious and liver affections, night fevers, head aches, piles costiveness, consumption, rheumatism, scurvy, impurity of the blood, or blotched and sallow complexions, soon yield to their curative properties. A single trial invariably secures them the title of the best family medicine now before the public. For sale by the proprietor, W. B. MOFFAT, at his office, 335 Broadway, and by Store Keepers and Druggists generally. oct15l582d1tw&wly

THE SENTINEL.

THE MIDNIGHT TRAIN.

Across the dull and brooding night
A giant flies with demon flight
And breath of wreathing smoke;
Around him whirls the reeling plain,
And with a dash of grim disdain,
He elevates the cindered rock.

In lonely swamps the low wind stirs
The belt of black funereal firs,
That murmur to the sky,
Till, startled by the mad career,
They seem to keep a hush of fear
As if a god swept by!

Through many a dark and silent heart of heath,
O'er booming bridges, where beneath
A midnight river brawls;
By ruined remnants of the past,
Their ivies trembling in the blast,
By singing waterfalls!

The slumberer on his silent bed,
Turns to the light his lonely head,
Divested of its dream,
Long leagues are hurried o'er,
Through tunnel-sheathes, with iron roar,
And shrill night-rending scream.

Past huddling huts, past flying farms,
High furnace domes, whose crimson arms
Are grappling with the night,
He tears along receding lands:
To where the kingly city stands,
Wrapt in a robe of light,

Here, round each wide and rushing gate,
A crowd of eager faces wait,
And every smile is known,
We thank thee, O Iron Thing train,
That in the city once again,
We clasp our loved, our own!

[Written expressly for the Daily Sentinel.]

TWENTY STEPS

TO ONE WOMAN'S HEART.

loomed up with all the significance of facts. No can tell the anguish of that daughter—who, through long years had looked up with a child's reverence and idolatry to its parent—when she awoke to find her all dethroned, defaced, and in the employment of that at which her sensitive mind revolted. No one ever saw the burning tears which wet the pillow at night, and drowned all gentle sleep. No one but her Father in Heaven ever heard her supplications poured out on her knees, that her father might be saved.

But there was only one course for her. She did not hesitate. She flew to the parent, and with all the energy and passion she possessed, intreated him to stop, to throw up the evil fruits, to abandon at once the whole field with all its remuneration and emoluments, and return to the respect of himself and daughter. There was no hesitancy. Her appeals were poured forth from a welling heart. She felt that her father had erred, and the only remedy was in instantaneous change. But alas, she knew not the impediments which environed him. He saw virtue and peace of mind in his daughter's face, and heard the echoing of his own conscience as she besought him by all that he loved on Earth or in Heaven not to hesitate. But an iron fate manacled his will; he dreaded the consequences of a virtuous act for the first time in his life! No it was all impossible. Nor could the white face pressed to his knees, and the uplifted eyes, move him. Ah, yes, he was moved, but not saved.

"Father," said the girl, "will you follow my advice?"

"Alice, it cannot be. We must work ourselves clear of this by degrees, and then—then Alice it will be time to mend!"

"By degrees," she repeated. "Then you will not renounce it all atones?"

"I cannot. You must have seen the names of many who are implicated, and we are all dependent on each other. Our mutual safety requires that not a link shall be dropped. I am watched, and a false step will precipitate us both to destruction. No, Alice, the only course left, is to use these very means, wicked though they are, for our ultimate safety."

"By that you mean that this course of folly and sin must not be obstructed," said the girl, rising and standing before him with a lofty air. "By this, you mean that we are compelled to live in sin!"

"You put too strong a construction on it, Alice," replied her father, with the blush mantling his face. You are young and romantic, let me be adviser, and we will yet be right."

"Father," she said, and her voice sounded cool and calm. "You are deceiving yourself. I conjure you, by all the love you bore my mother, to shake off forever this dreadful incubus, and let us go away into poverty and rags, so that we can be honest and look up to Heaven without the blush of guilt on our cheeks"

Mr. Stephenson hoped to quiet his daughter. He promised himself that specious words would win her approval, but he was mistaken, and the discovery of the mistake ruffled his temper.

"You are but a child!" he said, "and it cannot be expected that you will see these things in their right light. Let me caution you, now that you have discovered so much, that it never escapes from your own bosom."

"Father, listen to me!" As she spoke she drew herself up and confronted him erect. "Father, I know everything. The different transactions and all the means employed. even have the names of the parties stamped in my memory. I may be a child—but this is my resolve—if you do not relinquish at once and forever this pursuit, I, child that I am, will proclaim it to the world. I will turn all my knowledge into evidence, preferring rather to see my father a prisoner convicted than the tool of villains."

But Mr. Stephenson did not then apprehend any trouble from his daughter. He promised himself that a little time and coaxing would obviate Alice's prejudices. Here again he was mistaken. Alice knew nothing but the plain duty which seemed imperative, and a few days later he discovered that it was her intention to execute the threat she had thrown out. It was unfortunate for the girl that a rival party overheard her sacred attempt to coerce her father. One of the men deeply implicated in the execution of lawless schemes stood by and listened to her avow again her determination, and from that moment her fate seemed sealed.

Shortly after Mr. Stephenson was drowned in the bay by the upsetting of a boat, whether accidental or not was never known, and to show how systematized and potent was the power which now held sway over Alice it is only necessary to say that she was surprised in her own house while yet prostrated by the awful intelligence of her father, and secretly carried off during the night. A letter was received by her aunt in Connecticut, stating that Alice had gone to Europe with an intimate friend of her father's, and the next morning the miserable girl awoke in one of those horrible dens which infest Water street. It is doubtful whether the mere fear of detection or exposure would have induced the extreme measures which were afterwards adopted in regard to Miss Stephenson—but it happened that there was a young man by the name of Langthorn who conceived a very violent passion for her and to this may be attributed a great share of the persecution which ensued.

The house in Water street was what is denominated in slang phraseology, a "boozing ken"—a flash epithet to denominate a rendezvous, or meeting point for a gang or company. If its exterior was not prepossessing, still less so was the interior: a great, wide hall, dark and dingy, led to a court in the rear, where naught was visible but brick walls towering high, and flanked by chimneys and long stovepipes, from which came long streams of dark ooze. There was a close repulsive smell which assailed the senses at the first step—that peculiar mephitic odor in which the inflamable gas from the streets, and the noxious sewage form so conspicuous a part. Leading from this hall, or passage, were a number of doors, and in the court a cellar stairway, dank and mouldy, stretched down into some gloomy abode below.

On the same day that Miss Ontario Tanglegrass ordered her carriage, there stood in this hall a man of noticeable appearance. He was tall, but slightly built, though the heavy cloth coat added considerably to his size. His pantaloons were partly hidden in a great pair of India-rubber boots, and the white felt hat, placed carelessly on his head, revealed rather than disguised his face—catching as it did the little light which came in the passage and reflecting it down upon his features. Those features were regular—even classical in their outlines; but there was the leer in the eye, and the animal instinct on the mouth, which, together with a very marked dusk air in the carriage of the head, the motion of the body and the whole style of the man, which to an experienced observer would have more than overbalanced what little charms of personal beauty yet lingered about his face.

He opened a door leading from the passage and followed the dimly lighted course of a flight of stairs until he reached another door, which he opened and passed into a small hall. He stopped and listened a moment, and then knocked at what appeared to be a board partition, with his knuckles, but which proved to be an entrance by its being immediately opened by a woman, who bore not an unapt resemblance to himself in the expression of her face, though she was undoubtedly the oldest. Without noticing her he strode into the room and flung himself into a chair. The woman closed and locked the door, followed him, and stared in a singular manner into his face.

"Well, Kate," he said, "what's the matter?"

"Have you got the money?"

"No, not a copper!" he answered, nonchalantly.

The woman continued to regard him a moment with a sternness that appeared to have no effect whatever on the subject. He stretched himself in the chair, yawned once or twice, and said:

"How is my canary?"

"Mike Langthorn!" exclaimed the woman, fiercely, "you think you can aggravate me. Be careful! you ought to know the danger you run when you try to trample on me. I have told you repeatedly of it lately. It may be nothing that I am your wife, but it's something that I can send you to the gallows with a turn of my tongue. So tread lightly on me!"

The only answer returned to this was a contemptuous whistle, as the young man got up and tried the lock of a door which was screened by the hangings of the bed. Finding the door locked, he called his companion by name, and stood pointing significantly to the lock. Kate took a key from her pocket and threw it towards him. He caught it in his hand, applied it to the lock, and opening the door inserted enough of his figure to obtain a view of the room and its pale inmate asleep on the bed. Had Alice awoke and seen that couchant figure glaring in upon her, the vision never would have left her memory; but she was spared the infliction. Sleep interposed its gracious curtain for a brief period, and there she lay, the traces of sorrow still dimming the marble cheeks.

Mike gazed in silence for a few moments, then turning, he locked the door, put the key in his pocket, and with more of determination in his face and manner than he had yet displayed, he advanced to the woman.

"Kate, she's worse than she was this morning. I can see it."

"I'm glad you can," answered Kate, "it saves me the telling of an unpleasant truth then."

He looked at her inquisitively as she said this, as though he would fain read the disguised soul, and continued:

"There mustn't be any of your nonsense with her. She was only a bit frightened when she came and now she looks as though she had a fever."

Searching as was the glance rivited on the face of the woman, she did not blanch under it, but stood boldly up and faced the man though he thrust his clenched fist in her face and swore a huge oath.

"Do you hear! I won't have any of your damnable nonsense here. She must get well!" he said, and then taking off the great coat which he wore, and casting it carelessly over the back of a chair, he threw himself on the bed, and in an incredible short space of time was snoring in a sound sleep.

LIABILITI

THE SENTINEL.

COMMERCIAL.

MONDAY EVENING, February 20th, 1860.

Money Matters.

NEW YORK BANK STATEMENT.—The statement of the New York Banks for the week ending to-day, as reported by telegraph, shows the following change:

Decrease in loans	$568,402
Increase in specie	503,692
Decrease in circulation	187,108
Increase in deposits	1,854,152

Commercial.

Receipts by Railroad for the 24 hours ending noon to-day include:

Wheat, bus	5,495	Flour, bbls	205
Barley, bus	317	Dressed Hogs	21
Oats, bus	1,179	Hides, No	215
Corn, bus	46

There was a better feeling in the wheat market today in consequence of the more buoyant tone of the New York report, and plenty of buyers at the prices asked on Saturday. At the opening a small quantity of No 1 sold at 95½c, but after the news from New York had been received, this decline was regained, and the market closed firm at 99c for the same quality.—No. 2 sold at 97½c in store; Club at $1,01@1,02 delivered; and Extra at $1,02@1,03.

A small lot of Winter Wheat flour sold at $5,00.—Nothing done in Extra, and prices nominally unchanged.

Coarse grains of all kinds are dull. Oats 29@32c; Shelled Corn held at 50c; Ear 44c; Barley 50@65c for common to Extra white. Rye 75c. Hides steady.—Dressed hogs firm Butter dull. Highwines unchanged.

CHICAGO, Feb. 18th.—Receipts include flour, bbls 7,225; wheat, bush 9,194; corn, bush 15,554; oats, bush 2,154; barley, bush 510.

The receipts of hogs, live and dressed, to-day amounted to 642. There was a good demand by packers and shippers, and the market remains firm with sales of dressed at $6,45@6,90, and live at $5,25 gross. Beef cattle in good shipping demand, as well as a fair inquiry by packers and prices were a shade better.

The light stock of provisions offering render the market very quiet; but hoggers are still firm. Bulk Meats advanced ½c, with sales of about 5000 pieces shoulders, principally at 6c, for packed. There is also a good inquiry for Lard, and the market is firm at 10¾c, at which 300 tcs changed hands.

The demand for flour was light, but holders do not manifest any disposition to make any concessions, and the market was quiet with but sales at $4,25@4,90 for low grade to choice spring extras, and $5,75 for spring superfine. The Wheat market to-day was considerably bruised. With a good milling and shipping demand, and limited sales were made at 95½@96¾c for No. 2 spring in store. The corn market was very active to-day upwards of 90,000 bushels changed hands. At the opening prices were steady at 32½c for No. 1 in store, and but little was done till about the close of 'Change, when the demand became quite active, and the market advanced to 43c—closing in the afternoon at 42½c—with more buyers than sellers.—Press & Tribune.

RAILWAY MATTERS.

PRO RATA FREIGHT RATES.—The Railroad Record in an able article, condemns as manifestly unjust to the Railroads, and injurious to the interests of the West, the movement now on foot in New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, to compel the Railroad companies of those States, by Legislative enactment, to charge the same rate per ton per mile on all property transported, whether carried one mile, or the whole length of the road, and adds:

"The experience of the four great east and west lines for five years past, shows an actual cost of fifteen mills per ton per mile for transporting property by rail, and that at least double this amount, or three cents, should be charged to make the transportation of through merchandize profitable to the companies.—Past experience also shows that it costs nearly, if not quite, twice as much to transport way freight as it does through freight.

From these facts it is perfectly manifest, that if the shipper who sends his property but fifty miles pays the actual cost for the transportation of it, with a reasonable profit to the company—and no long way business is done otherwise profitably—the shipper who sends hundreds of miles would be taxed with almost a prohibitory rate. For example: Suppose, and we are willing to give the advocates of the pro rata law the benefit of the argument, that such a law as is now asked for by the canal interests, and the produce speculators of Cleveland, Buffalo, Rochester, etc., and that the railway companies fix their local tariff at the lowest possible figure—say two cents per ton per mile, with a reasonable allowance for loading and unloading. This would give us a rate to and from New York, on the average distance of 800 miles, of $32,00 per ton, or $1,60 per 100 lbs. A very moderate rate, and one that the railroads would not object to, though one, we fancy, that our farmers and shippers would most earnestly oppose; for it would give the farmers and millers of Rochester and Buffalo a great advantage over their more distant competitors. And that, we believe, is the whole object of the movement; for, as we understand it, the advocates of the pro rata law do not claim that they are overcharged, but that the distant shipper is undercharged, and is thus enabled to compete on equal terms with them in the eastern markets; or in other words, prevents them from entering the seaboard markets with a dollar or more margin on their floor, than the western miller has. How very patriotic are these advocates of a pro rata law!

The injustice of a pro rata law may be further shown by its effect on competing lines; for such a law would compel all the freight to pass over the shorter lines, unless the longer ones reduce their short rates to correspond. And this would be unfair to the way shippers on the shorter lines; for it would enable those at the same distance on the longer ones to enter the market on terms, in many cases, that would be equivalent to a fair profit.

From what has been said it will readily be seen that any law regulating the rates of freight, would act disastrously on all parties, and utterly fail of accomplishing any good whatever, except to put money into the pockets of a few speculators. We hope, therefore, that when this measure is brought before the Ohio Legislature, it will be promptly voted down.

If it be urged that the railroads are running themselves by low tariff on through business, all we have to say is, if that be so, we are sorry for it; but we do not see what shippers have to do with that, provided they are not charged more than fair rates for the service performed for them. They have no more right to insulate after railroads for encouraging western industry by low rates than the wine dreaser in the parable had to grumble because those who labored but one hour received equal compensation with those who had borne the heat and burden of the day." If the railroads are desirous of running themselves, it is none of our business; but it very certain that they can not continue to ruin themselves for any length of time, and that the ends to be gained of will speedily work their own cure, and to much better advantage if not hampered by Legislative restrictions."

MARINE AFFAIRS.

MONDAY, February 20th.

THE GRAND HAVEN LINE.—The propeller Cuyahoga of the D. & M. Railway, arrived from Grand Haven at 2 o'clock yesterday evening, with 130 tons of general merchandize, and cleared instright with 1000 bbls of flour, some 500 bbls of Pork, and other freight making up a full cargo. In speaking of this route a few days since, we intimated that the communication across the Lake had been suspended for "two or three months." Our attention has been called to the fact, however, that it was just one month and a half from the time the Cuyahoga stopped running until she commenced again; and this was not owing to any difficulties in navigating the Lake in Winter time, but because her boiler gave out, making it necessary for her to lay over for repairs.

We have had no weather this winter that would have prevented ordinary steamers from crossing the Lake with ease, and had the steamships been in condition for business they might have run all winter without missing a single trip. Our worst weather for navigation comes in the latter part of the Fall. A gale in winter is a thing of very rare occurrence. As for the ice obstructing the water, the manner in which the Milwaukee battered her way through one and a half miles of twenty-four inch ice up the Chicago river without injuring her paddles in the slightest degree, fully proves the fallacy of that supposition.

The unfavorable circumstances which have attended the opening of this new route, have in no way lessened our confidence in its practicability and usefulness.

THE COLLINGWOOD LINE.—The following list of first class screw steamers, are to run between Chicago, Milwaukee and Collingwood during the coming season commencing immediately upon the opening of navigation and forming a regular tri-weekly line: Georgean City, Hunter, Fountain City and the Sun. The above are all comparatively new vessels, staunch, and provided with excellent passenger accommodations. What they may lack in speed as compared with side-wheel steamers, is more than made up for by the absence of that continual jarring which makes steamboat travelling so annoying to some people. The route, too, is an exceedingly pleasant one during the Summer months. As a channel of transportation it has become noted for the regularity and despatch with which freight is carried over it.

Messrs. DORSMAN & Co., as heretofore, will be the agents for the Collingwood Line at this place.

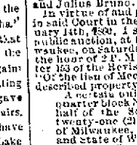
SOYER'S SULTANA'S SAUCE.

For Hot and Cold Dishes of all Kinds.



THIS MOST DELICIOUS and appetising Sauce, invented by the renowned SOYER, for the London Reform Club, is, since his decease, manufactured by the well known house of CROSSE & BLACKWELL, London, from the original recipe in his favorite Sauce House in England and on the Continent, and is now introduced with the reputation among American Epicures, and is much approved of as a most delicious appetite and aid to digestion.

Opinions of the London Press.

"We recommend our correspondent to try MONS. SOYER'S new Sauce, entitled the 'Sultana's Sauce.' It is made after the Turkish fashion: its flavor is exquisite, and it must be considered a boon in cases of SLOW AND WEAK DIGESTION."—The Lancet.

"Savory, Piquant and Spicy, worthy the genius of the Cordon Bleu."—Globe.

"A most valuable adjunct to Fish, Flesh, and Fowl, and should have a place on every table."—Post.

The Great Secret at Last Discovered!!

JUNIUS JUDSON,

PATENTEE AND MANUFACTURER OF JUDSON'S PATENT

GOVERNOR VALVES,

FOR REGULATING THE

MOTION OF STEAM ENGINES,

WARRANTED THE MOST PERFECT

Governor of Steam Power in the world, and like all really great inventions, the most simple. Manufactured at Lockport, N. Y., and Rochester, N. Y. Sold by Buildings, near E. R. Depot.

☞ Shop Rights for sale.

CAUTION TO INFRINGERS.

Patents issued in the United States, Nov. 6th, 1855; reissued, Jan. 8th, 1856; Second Patent, March 4th, 1861. Patented also in Great Britain and the Canadas, June 26th, 1858.

This improvement consists in making regulating valves to open with a rapidly increasing ratio of opening, by increasing it, which of the opening made in the valve—and by accelerating the opening motion of the valve—and by combining increasing motion, which of the opening made in the valve—and by combining increasing motion, which is regulated and valve motion. My patent Valves and Governors are so arranged as to give the resistance to the piston's motion, or the force of the steam, the power to open the valve just the exact amount of assistance necessary to counteract that resistance; and from the same cause, the addition of equal amounts of resistance, notwithstanding that the action of the governor is continually decreasing in effect.

Therefore reverse the action of valves combined with governors, as heretofore used. And as this effect is produced by entirely different mechanical devices, (apparently not similar, but really identical with my improvement,) by which infringers have endeavored to elude, therefore attention and request all persons interested, to examine carefully all alleged improvements in valves and governors, and if the principle of the invention is the same, regardless of the forms or principle, first discovered and applied by me, is not involved in their arrangements;—and which principle is the principal feature of merit in the inventor, both of which are at present much annoyed by their fraudulent depredations.
